

until Protestantism, is dead, and that "the entire extinction of Protestantism is arrived at."

The open avowal of the Sons of Rome, that the antagonism of their religion to that of Protestantism is annihilated, places matters in a new light; since they avow that it is with the object of accomplishing the total annihilation of Protestantism, that they engage in this struggle. They tell us once, that they will not tolerate, they will annihilate, and we have proof that they do not tolerate, and that is more than one instance they have attempted to annihilate. Under such circumstances, what is the duty of Protestants? Is it to arrive at annihilation by all means? Is it to continue toleration as extensively as ever? Our answer is plain. We do not wish to persecute, we hope to be able to continue toleration as freely and as fully as possible, but in that we may continue to tolerate, we expect that the feeling will be reciprocal. If those, who have openly declared an annihilating antagonism to Protestants, be determined to carry out their bold threats, why with Shakespeare we say "Lay on Mac Duff," for neither numbers, nor boldness of words, will deter Protestants, from defending by all the means within their power, their Roman antagonists employ to assail, every foot of their ground. We therefore hope, that instead of being driven into this last extremity, our Roman antagonists will follow the example we set them, by freely tolerating, since, they may rest assured they cannot annihilate.

NAVIGATION LAWS.—The following is taken from the Mont. Courier, and exhibits a relaxation in the Navigation Laws, not to have been expected. We cannot be displeased with the order; and we are fully satisfied, that the present free trade system will terminate in making this order permanent. The trade of this colony has been sacrificed already, the trade of the home merchant rendered greatly precarious, and shipping will not be spared in the general change.

INDIAN DEPARTMENT.—We had hoped, that the representations made to the Indian Department, relative to the career pursued by Capt. Anderson, would have procured some abatement in the treatment of the occupants of the Indian Land in Tredennaga. It has been clearly shown to the Department that it is impossible for the full amount to be paid up at once. Time has been asked, and the only answer that is given to this reasonable demand is the first issue of Law proofs. It is supposed, that if these people cannot pay for the Land, that the heavy expenses of a chancery suit, will enable them to do so. And surely it can never be the intention of the Department to charge the expenses of these suits, which now have reached to about four hundred and fifty pounds, to the public chest. We cannot believe that the Government has really any knowledge of these proceedings; and we feel it duty to have to perform to call upon the Council, to see the matter investigated, and to put the Indian Department, in efficient hands for management. The causes for complaint, that at present exist, call loudly for redress.

Died on the 10th of May 1847, LAURA, wife of G. V. N. RYLAND and daughter of P. G. Seldon Esq. aged, 21 years 6 months and 16 days.

Harris, Pastor of the Congregational Church, Belleville, who in compliance with the wishes of surviving Relations on friends, took for his text, the 2nd. Verse of the 14th Chapter of the Gospel according to John, "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you, go to prepare a place for you."

If the best thy great salvation
Must attain with trembling fear,
Lord and Judge of all creation,
Where shall sinful man appear?
God of love! and mercies tender!
Stem to vice, to weakness mild;
Teacher, Saviour, Sir, Defender!
Save, oh save, thy suppliant child!

By the claims which saints inherit,
From thy blood, for converts poured,
By thine all prevailing Spirit;
By thy covenanted word;

By thy tears, in sorrow weeping.

By Sir Allan, by virtue of his office as Speaker of the House, is one of the College Senate. We were happy to see the gallant Knight looking so well in health. He took up his quarters with the Rev. A. McNab, A. M., Principal of the College. On Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, Sir Allan, accompanied by the Faculty and several gentlemen from the town, proceeded to the College Chapel, when the following Address was presented to him by the Senators, and read by Mr. Orniston:

"To Sir ALLAN NAPIER MACNAB, Knight,
Speaker of the Legislative Assembly of United Canada.

"Sir,—It is with the most cordial and ungrudging pleasure that we of you a hearty welcome to the present auspicious occasion, and though inexperienced but unskilled in due formalities, we beg leave to express the high sense which we entertain of the honour conferred upon us by the visit of a gentleman so highly distinguished as yourself, both by the favour of our Sovereign and the confidence of the people.

"Nor can we forget that we are addressing one who by tried fidelity in her time of danger, and by untiring activity in her service, has won the esteem and deserves the gratitude of its native Country—one whose aim has been her true advancement, and whose name will stand high in the list of her most distinguished sons.

And it is essential to the future prosperity and true glory of our rising Country, that her own sons, imitating the illustrious example which you, honoured Sir, have nobly set before them, should strive and do her best. It becomes an object of the first importance that the opportunity of acquiring a liberal education should be placed, as far as possible, within the reach of all.

And as this Institution, through labours great and peculiar disadvantages, has already been extensively useful, and if properly managed we believe well calculated to be more so, we hope as you have ever been favourable to its interests, and have twice deigned to visit it, that you will exert your whole extensive influence with which high talents and exalted rank invest you, to ally since by virtue of your honourable position the highest in the gift of the people, you member of its Senate.

Hoping that the Legislative body over you have the honour to preside, may further the Educational interests of our Country, and wishing to yourself continued aid and happiness.

And we have the honour to be, Sir,
Your most obedient servant,
The STUDENTS OF VICTORIA COLLEGE."

By Sir Allan was pleased to make a few remarks.
The next speaker, W. S. Griffin, Waterdown, had chosen a popular subject, "The British Empire," and to judge by the repeated applause with feelings of the highest satisfaction, and an extremely gratifying expression of hearty welcome to this seat of useful learning, where you have enjoyed opportunities

Sheriff's Office, Belleville, 7th April, 1847.

NOTICE.

THE Subscribers take this method of informing the public generally, that they have commenced business as

At 7 o'clock in the evening the Exhibition commenced, before one of the largest and most respectable audiences that we have ever seen collected together in this place; an honour for which the College was mainly indebted to the great popularity and personal influence of her Rev. Principal. On the platform we were welcomed by the Hon. the Rev. the Hon. the Archbishop, the Rev. R. Jones, Chairman of the College District, also D. E. Boulton, Esq., Thomas Evans, Esq., and several other gentlemen. The Chapel was handsomely decorated with evergreens, and appropriate mottoes hung round the walls.

The learned and Rev. Principal opened the proceedings with an eloquent address. He spoke in a good, clear, and pleasing manner, and his language was intended to diffuse light through the mind, and conduct the feelings towards useful objects. Every sentence felt its influence in enlarging the bounds of its circle, and its expansive influence in every direction. It teaches to separate truth from error; to weigh with impartiality, and decide without presumption. It creates the heat of controversy without speaking the truth. It enables us safely to proceed between the excessive timid custom, and the temerity which would break down every barrier. It is education which enables man to turn from the claims of degrading habits. It is an education that the art of judging of opinions exists, and of elaborating them, and rendering them more salutary. Amidst the progress of the human mind, even by an almost inevitable descent, places itself in the path of improvement. A sound moral education enables us to separate what is beneficial in the mixture of the best, beneficial position upon society. Finally, education is the moral engine, which exerts physical force.

The learned and Rev. gentleman spoke at considerable length, and concluded by stating that the Addresses which were to be delivered by the Students, were altogether their own productions. He also stated that of these Students, four had been but six months at College, one one year, one two years, and one three years; that the Graduate must therefore make allowances for the feebleness of matter and manner. He trusted time and industry on the part of the students would correct both.

Immediately after the Principal resumed his seat, Master J. B. Broughton, of Cobourg, (who had been but one year at the Institution), was called on to deliver a Latin Oration. It was very correct, and reflected great credit upon his classical attainments.

Master W. B. Dean of Harris (also a pupil of one year's standing) then delivered his address. It was military and christian heroism contrasted. He spoke in a clear, distinct voice, and was warmly applauded by the audience.

His next speaker, W. S. Griffin, Waterdown, had chosen a popular subject, "The British Empire," and to judge by the repeated

THE Subscribers hereby give notice, that from and after this date they will carry on the business of WAREHOUSEMEN apart from that of FORWARDERS, and will not receive into their Warehouses here any goods other than that already consigned to them in the former capacity of Forwarders.

The reason was stated on the 24th of March, and was as follows:—In consequence of the increase of disease among the inmates.

The Dublin Pilot publishes a letter from Mr. Grogan, M. P. addressed to the Lord Mayor of Dublin, which contains some important statements.

"The number of destitute Irish who have immigrated into Liverpool is represented as amounting to several thousands (40,000); most if not all of these poor persons come from the Southern and Western districts of Ireland, where the new poor-law for Ireland has been passed; they will be sent back to that country. Sir G. stated that to be the intention of the authorities in Liverpool, to day. As in all probability the greater number of these will be landed in Dublin, this becomes a question of the most vital importance to the responsibility of the city. Viewing it in this light, we interviewed with the Attorney-General for England on the subject. The Government, admitting the weight of the charge likely to fall upon Dublin, are still unwilling to discontinue Ireland all legislative and expenses consequent upon a settlement law as existing here; but would be willing, I think, to consider any proposal whereby Dublin and the other ports may be relieved from this burden, but certain to fall on them, without the consent of any resolution from the English law of settlement. I thought it my duty, therefore, to call your immediate attention to this subject, in the hope that some plan may be devised whereby this object can be attained; and, if possible, it may be introduced into the measure now before the House."

On Tuesday, Jennifer Boltho, a widow of Redditch, was tried for the murder of her husband, John Foster. The man was murdered by purposely withholding nourishment. She herself had been all but starving; evidence was not quite conclusive; and she was acquitted by a Jury inclined to be merciful to her.

At Bury St. Edmund's Assizes, on Saturday, Catherine Foster was tried for the murder of her husband, John Foster. The man was murdered by purposely withholding nourishment. She herself had been all but starving; evidence was not quite conclusive; and she was acquitted by a Jury inclined to be merciful to her.

The Southern Reporter of Cork mentions a remarkable case of the great waters. Within some recollection there never was an ing by Marlow's corner, a man sneaking via meets one in the face, as if from the pul-verised body of some animal. We learn that similar nuisances are experienced, in

THE TELEGRAPH.

When the Montreal Telegraph Company was first established, we thought them would be annihilated by us and our flag city. But, alas, the dream is past! and we are awake to the awful truth that we are to have no lightning in Canada. We should have thought that the Company would have found in their interest to make stations at the principal towns through which the wires passed, but on account of the direct profit likely to accrue to them from the use of the wires, and the indirect, in the way of protection against cutting. For ourselves, we care not one straw whether we have a station or not, because we believe we can always be sure of getting the news as soon by Rochester as by Telegraph. The Press at Toronto and Hamilton speak in anything but flattering terms of the invention, so far as they are concerned. The settled way of announcing news being as follows:—"The Steamer arrived at Boston at 2 P. M. The wires are cut." As to any station for laying silly money to pay $250 for a station for one year, with no guarantee that it shall be kept up, the idea is preposterous.—Star.
